

Dr Simon Breakspear Bio for Programs & Agendas

Dr Simon Breakspear is a researcher, advisor and speaker on educational leadership, policy and change. Simon develops frameworks and tools that make evidence-based ideas actionable and easy to understand. Over the last decade his capability building work has given him the opportunity to work with over 100,000 educators across more than 10 countries.

Simon is an Adjunct Senior Lecturer in the School of Education at UNSW. He serves as an advisor to the NSW Department of Education and sits on an expert steering committee for the Australia Institute for Teaching and School Leadership (AITSL). Simon received his BPsych (Hons) from UNSW, his MSc in Comparative and International Education from the University of Oxford and his PhD in Education from the University of Cambridge. Simon began his work in education as a high school teacher.

Conference Speakers' Introduction

Dr Simon Breakspear is an educational researcher, former high school teacher and father of three. His work focuses on supporting teams to enhance their impact on learning through evidence-informed processes and tools. He is an Adjunct Senior Lecturer at the University of New South Wales and advisor to the NSW Department of Education on Leadership Development and Curriculum reform.

Simon holds a Masters of International and Comparative Education from the University of Oxford, and a PhD in education from the University of Cambridge where he was a Gates Scholar. He works globally with teachers, school and system leaders, and we're excited to have Simon here with us today to speak on (topic title). Please join me in warmly welcoming Dr Simon Breakspear.

This is a suggested introduction only – please feel welcome to use as written, modify or create your own.